

“Getting Organized Without Spending Lots of Money”

Volume 10, 10/1/09

Over the years, one dilemma that potential clients have with getting organized is “Getting my space organized costs money and time I don’t have. I have to buy lots of supplies and don’t have time to organize.” Here are suggestions to organize your home and/or office with very little money and time.

Ways to get supplies for organizing:

1. Repurpose storage cabinets and bins in your space. Go on a tour around your place to find bins that are empty or not being used efficiently. Decorative bins are great for areas like the Living Room and Playroom. The bins look more like a decorative item than just a plain organizing bin.
2. Go to Yard sales for usable storage containers. Look for bins that are big enough to hold your sorted items.
3. Trading parties are all the rage. Why not have a trading “organizing supplies” party? You would gather friends and family at your home and trade your unwanted organizing items for other’s wanted items. If you want something someone else has, you would see if they want to trade with you. This gives everyone what they want and there is no money involved.

Ways to reduce the amount of time it takes to organize.

1. Invite family and friends over for lunch and organizing. They can help with organizing and purging. Offer them food and stuff, if they want it. Remember, sort into like categories and remove any unwanted or unneeded items. Have fun with it.
2. Get the family involved. Have everyone help in organizing the space. After all, they probably contributed to the mess.

I hope this helps motivate you to get organized. From my experience, getting organized and going through the process of purging, releases you from your old stuff and brings new experiences forward. Enjoy!
